Short Message

resulting in difficulty in navigation at sea between Saldanha Bay and Cape Agulhas from tomorrow spreading to Plettenberg Bay by Wednesday afternoon, subsiding by Friday morning (12-14/07/2022).

Discussion

High energy waves with periods of between 15 and 16 seconds will result in significant south-westerly waves of 4.5 to 5.5m between Saldanha Bay and Cape Agulhas tomorrow spreading to Plettenberg Bay from Wednesday afternoon into Thursday, these conditions may result in difficulty in navigation at sea.

Impacts

Difficulty in navigation at sea for small vessels and personal water crafts (e.g. kayaks) is possible, small vessels at risk of taking on water and capsizing in locality as well as localised disruptions of small harbours and ports for a short period of time.

Instruction

Small vessels are advised to seek shelter in harbours, bays or inlets.
